THE PRESIDENT'S

To Produce Tariff Law on Scientific Basis.

Any Tariff is a Good Tariff Which Gives American Markets to American Producers.

The President doubtless believes it to be his duty both to the nation and to the party which elected him to hold the Republican party together as a constructive political unit.

And whatever formal suggestions he may make to that end are deserving of the most respectful condition from all who profess to be Republi-

He has made such suggestions in a formal letter addressed to the Congressional Campaign Committee.

The one traditional policy of the Republican party is Protection to home industries, as the one distinctive policy of the Democratic party is Protection to home industries, as the one distinctive policy of the Democrat ic party is the abundant of Protection. The President therefore, naturally confines himself to the discus- Means of Minimizing Offenses sion of the Tariff in respect to which there has arisen disagreement in the Republican ranks.

The President's suggestion is that the Payne-Aldrich law, as a whole be left undisturbed, but that certain schedules shall be taken up for revision under rules fixed both in the Senate and Home under which no amendments shall be in order unless germane to the subject matter of these schedules.

And he also suggests that the select ed schedules, when taken up, shall best attainable compromise with other tion of prisoners? What are the interests, but independently and on best means of working prisoners in a "scientific" basis.

Suppose, for example, that some one should propose the agricultural schedule for "revision—and this is un derstood to mean "revision downward -and there should be reason to suspect that the proposer had especially in mind the duties on prunes, raisins. hons, lemons and oranges?

What would our California delegation do? What would any "Insurgents" in it do?

We all know what they would do. They would fill the country with their precisely what every other delegation or member would do-regardless of party-if the interests of the constituencies represented were in danger.

But conceding that majorities could be found to combine against the particular industries assailed, the next difficulty to be met is the ascertain- amount of crime?" asks Chairman O. ment of costs of production.

In this and all other countries "cost vary in different establishements and in differnet years. And they vary greatly in different countries. Take the foreign cost of "pearl buttons," for example Shall the foreign cost be that of England, or Gerrmany, or Japan? Shall the foreign cost of steel -be that of Germany or China? All these are hard questions. Presumably, the President has considered them. Possibly in due time he will elucidate them. Certainly they need elucidation.

But if such Tariffs cannot exist with out also resulting in combination and extortion-which the Chrornicle denies-it will be time to abandon Protection and let the country take its chances.

Wasinghton, Sept. 14.—Is the death penalty longer advisable for capital crimes? Is the indeterminate sentence feasible? How can we deal with State election is evident by the numinebrity? Should children be treated as criminals when they violate the law? What can be done about Idle

> The foregoing are a few of the many questions that will be discussed by noted European and American criminologists at the meeting here, October 2 to 8, of the eighth international prison congress. Fifty nations are to have representatives at the congress and more than 100 of these foreigners, as the guests of Uncle Sam, will leave Jersey City next Sunday evening on a special train which will make a trip of more than 2,000 miles that the visitors may inspect some of the best prisons and reformatories in the United States. The congress will also be attended by a larger number of Americans who outery against being singled out for are interested in the prevention of "discriminatory legislation." And what crime. It is estimated that criminals, the California delegation would do is directly and indirectly, cost this country $1,000,000,000 a year. There are about 100,000 prisoners in American reformatory institutions. condition, it is contended, makes the crime problem equally as serious as the tuberculosis problem.

"What can be done to reduce the F. Lewis of the congress' committee on publicity. "What can be done to make fewer criminals? That is the question, and the purpose of this international convention is to bring the best thought and experience of the world to bear on the great issue."

Of coursre, chief interest will center in the nominee for Governor. Several leading Republicans aspire to the high position and there will be a real fight before the nominee is selected. Kentucky is always a doubtful State in a State election, and has been so for a number of years. Few Democrats, and not very many Republicans, seem to realize that in the past fifteen years Kentucky has elected three Republican Governor's and one Democratic Governor, although he was elected for two terms. If the preliminary rough estimate of 90,000,000, for the whole country's population in 1910 is similarly compared with the 75,693,734 of the 1900 census the ratio of increase there is only 19 per cent. The bearing of these figures on finance lies in the question of the more rapid increase in home consumers of our agriculture products, as compared with the increase in producers.

This, as every one knows has to do especially with the harvests of wheat and cotton. If these yearly $119,601 of manufactured in 1909. crops have on the average been increasing as rapidly as the increase in home-consuming population exports and prices of those products might remain the same. But if the crops are not keeping pace with the growth of home demand, their exports must suffer permanently, and prices (foreign harvests remaining fairly constant) must advance. What have the crops to show?

with his being. It is reasonable to suppose that its swelling numbers have rolled and made heavens vocal with its strains of praise since creation dawned. But the first account of it on record was at the laying of the foundation of the earth, when the "Morning starts" delighted with the promise of a new "plant" sang together and all the earth was made glad. Its rocky spires thrown up, its forest harps strung, its ocean organs tuned, it raised its everlasting anthem to swell the chorus of the skies

Every song soothes and uplifts. It is the just possible that at times the Owensboro and Rockport Bridge that a song is as good as a prayer. Indeed a song of the pure kind recognized in scripture is akin to a petition which it is also in the spirit of thanksgiving. That "Sweet singer of Israel" wedded his sincerest prayers to melody and wafted them upward on the night air from his throbbing heart. In the soul that has been touched and made tender by the fingers of pain, music finds a place where it may murmur its sweetest chords.

Music is healthful; there is no better cure for bad humor and no medicine more pleasant to take. We west the entire length of that street the piano is heard where once the monotone of the spinning wheel, and a matter of rejoicing rather than musicles of iron and fingers of steel, driven by the tireless elements, now perform the laborous work of cloth manufacture, and lucious fruits are to the taste. Who regrets that forrests have been cleared, the walls and fences built, the grain crops made sufficiently easy of cultivation, to allow the addition of the fruit yard otherwise the rights of the company and garden for the enjoyment of the cultivator? One of the greatest at tractions for the old and young, when visiting our cities, is the music that we may hear there. Why should the farmer's household not be as cheerful and full of pleasure, as that of the merchant or the professional man? I know of nothing morre genial and heart warming than to hear a nice instrumental piece or song sung by a musician, or anyone.

> No family can afford to do without music. It is a good luxury and an economy, an alleviator of sorrow and a spring of enjoyment.

So let everybody get busy and learn music. If they want something Who does not know the softening that will stay with them. Music will fill the desolate homes with pleasof the human voice? It is like the ure. We need it in the homes and in the churches.

Here we have it in a nut shell. After all of the abuse and criticism which has been heaped upon the new tariff law by our Democratic friends it is admitted by no less authority than Judge Parker that the Democrats are of many minds, and that their position on the tariff runs all the way from the bottom free trade to the top round of the highest protection. This was proven by the late which the Democratic delegation from Virginia, wanted to increase the tariff on peanuts four hundred per cent. and everybody knows how our own Kentucky Democratic delegation gallantly worked for a tariff on hemp and other Kentucky products, while the Louisiana senators and representatives stood by sugar and rice and the late senator McEnry even voted for the final passage of the law. #### Arguments Which Destroy Each Other.

The Democratic leaders and newspapers tell the consumer and laborer that the Tariff is responsible for the high cost of living. In the same breath they tell the farmer that his prices are regulated by the laws of supply and demand. It seems that the two arguments used destroy each other. The Tariff keeps out foreign made goods, thus Protecting the home laborer and giving him work at good wages, which enables him to pay good prices to the farmer for what he produces .- Marion (Va.) new pupils who have entered school ers, before starting out on fall shopping forays, study the newspaper advertising. This habit is a great time

The shopper escapes fruitless visits to many stores, and needless bothering of clerks, by learning in advancewhere she is likely to find what she wants. She gives very little attention to the places that fail to informs her as to their offering.

Many women, too, having become personally acquainted with the store people, dislike to enter their places of business unless they feel fairly sure of buying. They avoid this embarassment by learning in advance through the newspaper where they can probably supply their needs.

Thus it is that many sales are pracher home. It has been proved over and over again, that the trade will pass stores with a main street location that fail to advertise, to hunt up poorly located shops on back streets that are well advertised. A merchant might as well close his shutters in business hours as fail to meet his competitors in the field where they are doing the heart of their business -the newspaper advertisement.

Hypnotized Alligators.

Bert Swan is the name of a man who can catch alligators with his hands, turn them on their backs and mare them as helpless as infants. The alligators Swan handle are not the giants that bask in the mud of tropical rivers, but they are sufficiently formidable nevertheless.

It is wonderful with what quickness these saurians can snap at a man. Swan gave a little session with his pets for the benefit of a correspondent of St. Nicholas, and this quickness of action on the part of the alligators was fully demonstrated before the little private performance

The first task was to get the alligator into the open where the light was sufficiently good to permit of snapshots. This was done by two men grasping the alligator, one seizing his jaws with a lightning movement and the other grabbing his wildly waving tail.

In the open the alligator proved as wicked as could have been wished Swan's method of catching him was to hold the hands in readiness and wait for a favorable chance to grab the upper and lower jaws. As this was done while the formidable rows of teeth were apparently aching for a chance to snap the man's arm, it was no simple matter to catch the jaws and imprison them.

Swan waited a long time before he saw his chance, and the eye could scarcely follow the movement of his the outstretched jaws. #### How to Poison.

S. Arthur Johnson, of the Colorado Agriculture College, says:

The adult beetles congregate on the potatoes as soon as they appear above the ground. They live upon the leaves, but generally are not sufficiently numerous to do great injury. When the vines are much eaten, however, it will pay to spray with Paris Green, at the rate of one pound in the sea and river, but is greatly dreada hundred gallons of water, or a half pound in a barrel.

An insecticide which is fast gaining favor is arsenate of lead. This poison is slower than Paris Green, but has some advantage which makes its use preferable. It sticks firmly mals that float down the river-dead to the leaves and is not washed off or alive. by light showers. Enough will stick on the leaves to kill beetles weeks after the application is made. There is no danger of burning the leaves of tha plants if a good grade of lead is used "To whom God gives office, he alse The farmer can use it as strong as gives brains." is necessary. If the plants are thoroughly sprayed with this substance, at the rate of eight pounds to a hundred gallons of water, when the first eggs hatch, the poison will remain on the leaves until most of the other made up their quarrel, have they eggs are hatched and the young beetles killed.

Arsenate of lead generally comes in the form of a white paste. To mix this substance, first fill the spray er with water. Then weigh out in a pail the amount of lead required. Pour a gallon or so of water on the his attempts at barking are more like lead and stir the substance very tho- a burlesque of the real thing. He roughly with a stick. Pour off the top gently into the machine, through a strainer. It will probably be found that a part of the lead has not been mixed. Add more water and proceed as before.

If the grower has neglected the work until the leaves are being badly as he is exceedingly good natured, it eaten by the insects it will probably be better to spray with Paris Green, at the rate of one pound of the green to seventyfive gallons of water.

One should use good machinery of an up-to-date pattern. The old-fashioned sprinkling carts are not used any more by progressive potato growers. A machine which throws a fine spray of some kind under pressure is the only modern method. No grower can afford to have a good potato sprayer at his command. A modrn macehine costs from $75 to

The Bulldog.

The bulldog, unlike the majority of dogs, very seldom barks. In fact, owing to the construction of his throat wades into a fight without any vocal warning, and the only sound he emits is his heavy breathing. His courage is astonishing, and the largeness of his opponent never acts as a deterrent when hostilities are imminent. Still, as he is not a quarrelsome dog, he very rarely indulges in street brawls, and, takes a lot to rouse him.

The modern bulldog is undoubtedly a different looking animal from his bullfighting ancestors. The most conspicuous "improvements" introduced by the present day "fancy" are largeness of head, width of chest, heaviness of bone and more typical tail.

Why She Was Pleased.

"Do you mean to tell me that you actually overcame that ancient antipathy of yours for Mrs. Muggsby and called on her this afternoon?" said his wife's husband. "That's about the size of it," replied her husband's wife. "And she was glad to see you?"

"There isn't any doubt about it."

"Why do you think that?" "Well, I had on that old dress I've worn three seasons and a hat that is entitled to a prominent place in some museum for antiquities, while she had on a new gown just from Paris. Oh. yes, I'm sure she was tickled to death, figuratively speaking, when I called!"

A Sample of Suggestion.

A popular comedian and playwright was praising the humorous value of

"It is funnier to suggest a thing." he said, "than to say it out. Play-wrights should remember this. Sugges-tion, pregnant suggestion, is what makes really funny the little boy's remark to his father:

CHICKEN RACES.

Ridiculous "Hen Derby" Instituted by Sir John Astley.

It is said that the crowning triumph of Sir John Astley, that inventor of absurd contests, whose forte it was to arrange races between animals which nature apparently had made most unsuitable for the purpose, was the institution of the only races that ever

The story is that the idea came to Sir John during a visit to a friend who kept a large number of hens. He noticed how rapidly the chickens used to scurry to their mother when food was thrown to her. This furnished the ingenious Sir John with a clever notion. and at mess, he then being quartered at Windsor, he accordingly unfolded to his brother officers his plans for a great chicken race.

He bought from a farmer a hen and a brood of chickens. Each officer was to choose a chicken and mark it with a ribbon, so that he could easily recognize it. The chickens were to be placed about fifty yards away from their mother, and whichever of them reached her first in answer to her cackle when food was thrown to her was to be ad-

And so this ridiculous "hen Derby" came off in the barracks at Windsor and was witnessed by nearly the whole brigade of guards, who traveled down from London especially to see it.

The race was such a success that it was arranged to repeat it the following week. It might possibly have become a regular institution and a racing stable of chickens might have been added to the attractions at Windsor had not Sir John's chicken won on each occasion with such ease as to cause suspicion in the minds of his competitors. Indeed, it was found, it is said, that in both races Sir John had selected a sturdy young cockerel who was much too speedy for his sisters. When victory was a certainty for one particular competitor the contest, of course, lost interest, and so the chicken end.-New York Herald.

A WITTY PASHA.

He Told the Missionary a Story to Fit the Occasion.

Official bribery is common in the east, and it is a tender subject there, as a humorous story told by the late Rev. H. H. Jessup, D. D., in his book, "Fifty-three Years In Syria," bears witness.

One day in 1873 Dr. Van Dyck, manager of the press in connection with the work of propaganda of the Syrian Protestant college at Beirut, was sent for by Kamil Pasha, the governor, to come to the serai, as he was about to shut up the press for a violation of the press laws. Dr. Van Dyck proceeded to the serai and asked the pasha what he meant. The pasha, holding up a little tract, said, "Was this printed at your press?" "Yes." "Then it must be confiscated, as it contains an attack on the Turkish government." "Wherein," asked Dr. Van Dyck, "does it attack the government?"

The pasha pointed out several pascorruption everywhere prevalent, perjury and lying among witnesses and public officials and the fact that "truth had fallen in the streets and equity could not enter."

ANCESTRY.

Some Famous Personages to Whom It Meant Nothing.

The making famous of the expression "I am my own ancestor" is usually credited to Andoche Junot, for a time a marshal of France. Junot had risen from the ranks and became the Duke of Abrantes and an important figure at Napoleon's newly formed court. One day a nobleman of the old regime asked him what was his ancestry. "Ah, sir," replied the spirited soldier, "I know nothing about it. I am my own ancestor." Probably he had never heard of the similar remark made by Tiberius about Curtius Rufus, "He seems to me to be descended from himself."

Napoleon's reply to the emperor of Austria was in a kindred vein. The Austrian when Napoleon became his prospective son-in-law would fain have traced the Bonaparte lineage to some petty prince of Treviso. "I am my own Rudolph of Hapsburg." said Napoleon. Under similar circumstance Napoleon silenced a genealogist, "Briend, my patent of nobility dates from Montenotte," his first great vic-

When Ipichrates, the Athenian general, had it cast up in his face by a descendant of Harmodius that he was a shoemaker's son he calmly replied, The nobility of my family begins with me; yours ends with you."

Almost the same words were used by Alexander Dumas when asked if he were not descended from an ape (covert sneer at his negro grandmother). "Very likely my ancestry begins where yours ends."

Voltaire in his "Merope" says: "The first to become king was a successful soldier. He who serves well his country has no need of ancestry."

Conquered the Orchestra.

In his early days Herr Arthur Nikisch, the famous conductor, was appointed to conduct a performance of "Tannhaeuser" at the Leipzig opera. He was but a young chorus master at the time, and the orchestra absolutely refused to play under so youthful a conductor. They were only induced to do so when a director said that if they were of the same mind after the overture had been played they could then and there hand in their resignations. The overture was a veritable triumph for Nikisch, and with profuse apologies the orchestra offered him their congratulations.-London Tit-Bits.

Dodging the Bore. The tardy clubman paused at the door of the smoking room. "Bingley." he asked, in a whisper, has Slodger given out the daily statement of his health and told all about his symptoms yet?"

"Yes," said the man inside the door, "He's just finished."

TURNER'S AMBITION.

The Great Painter Achieved Years of Self Sacrifice.

Turper could not bear to sell a favorite painting. He was always melancholy after such a transaction. "I lost one of my children this week," he would sadly exclaim. At a meeting at Somerset House it was decided to purchase his two great pictures, the "Rise" and the "Fall of Carthage," for the National gallery. A Mr. Griffiths was commissioned to offer £5,000 for them. "A noble offer," said the painter. "a noble offer; but, no. I cannot part with them. Impossible." Mr. Griffiths, greatly disappointed, took his leave. Turner ran after bim. "Tell those gentlemen," he said, "that the nation will most likely have the pictures after all." Long before this Turner had matured a purpose which continued to be his dominant idea while life lasted. This was to bequeath to his country a Turner gallery of pictures and to amass £100,000 to build and endow an asylum for decayed artists. It was for this great which criticised the bribery and object that he denied himself all pleasures that cost money, all luxuries. His resolve, once made, could not be shaken. On one occasion he was offered £100,000 for the art treasures locked up in the "den." "Give me the key of the house, Mr. Turner," said a Liverpool merchant, "and here is the money." "No, thank you," replied Turner. "I have refused a better offer." And that was true. By his will "Have you never heard the story of he bequeathed £140,000 to found an land and a magnificent art collection to his country. This latter bequest was, however, coupled with the condition that his "Rise and Fall of Carthage" should be bung in the National gallery between Claude's "Seaport" and "Mill."-London Graphic.

Didn't Give Him the Chance. Schopenhauer, when staying in Geneva, used to go every day to a table d'hote at which now and then appeared other distinguished visitors. Once Lady Byron sat next to him.

"Doctor," said the host after she had left, with a twinkle in his eye, "doctor, do you know who sat next to you at the table today? It was Lady Byron." "Why the deuce did you not tell me this before?" replied Schopenhauer; "I should have liked to be rude to her." "That was what I feared." said the host, "and for that reason I kept it quiet."

Very Thorough. New York's collector of customs was talking about smuggling. "Smuggling must cease," he said. We'll make it cease, if we have to be as strict and thorough as the French ustoms officer. This strict officer, standing on the pier, frowned on a ourist with a swollen cheek. "What have you got there?" he said, pointing to the swelling.

"'An abscess, sir,' was the reply. "'Well, said the officer impatiently, open it, please."—Washington Star.

It Had an Effect. "Did that sarcastic letter you wrote to the milkman requesting him to let you attend to the job of watering the milk now that you have a new filter in the kitchen faucet have any effect?" "It did," said the jokester. "He delivers the bottles now only two-thirds full."-New York Sun.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

How to Poison.

S. Arthur Johnson, of the Colorado Agriculture College, says:

The adult beetles congregate on the potatoes as soon as they appear above the ground. They live upon the leaves, but generally are not sufficiently numerous to do great injury. When the vines are much eaten, however, it will pay to spray with Paris Green, at the rate of one pound in the sea and river, but is greatly dreadpound in a barrel.

An insecticide which is fast gaining favor is arsenate of lead. This poison is slower than Paris Green, but has some advantage which makes its use preferable. Strawberry Culture.

A south exposure is best for early strawberries, while a north exposure results in late plants, says "Farm and Home." Almost any kind of a soil containing considerable clay is satisfactory. While a sandy land answers very nicely for early fruit. See that the land is thoroughly fertilized with well-rotted barnyard manure which is free from weed seeds. Set the plants in rows four feet apart, and the plants eighteen to twenty-four inches apart in too rows. By allowing the runners to develop a solid united row will soon be formed, which is undoubt edly the most satisfactory for a farm garden. Set them in the spring, cultivate between the rows and you will have no trouble with your strawberries As soon as the fruiting season is over cover lightly with straw, stable manure, marsh hay, pine needles or such to a depth of three inches. On poor land, stable manure is the most desirable. Remove the mulch from the starts, and if there is danger of frost any time after that the mulch can easily be replaced on a small plot. #### The Bulldog.

The bulldog, unlike the majority of dogs, very seldom barks. In fact, owing to the construction of his throat Pour a gallon or so of water on the his attempts at barking are more like a burlesque of the real thing. He wades into a fight without any vocal warning, and the only sound he emits is astonishing, and the largeness of his opponent never acts as a deterrent when hostilities are imminent. Still, as he is not a quarrelsome dog, he very rarely indulges in street brawls, and, as he is exceedingly good natured, it takes a lot to rouse him.

The modern bulldog is undoubtedly a different looking animal from his bullfighting ancestors. The most conspicuous "improvements" introduced by the present day "fancy" are largeness of an up-to-date pattern. The old-fash- head, width of chest, heaviness of bone and more typical tail.

CHICKEN RACES.

Ridiculous "Hen Derby" Inglituted by Sir John Astley.

It is said that the crowning triumph of Sir John Astley, that inventor of absurd contests, whose forte it was to arrange races between animals which nature apparently had made most unsuitable for the purpose, was the inrows in early spring before growth stitution of the only races that ever took place between chickens.

The story is that the idea came to Sir John during a visit to a friend who kept a large number of hens. He noticed how rapidly the chickens used to scurry to their mother when food was genious Sir John with a clever notion, and at mess, he then being quartered at Windsor, he accordingly unfolded to his brother officers his plans for a great chicken race.

He bought from a farmer a hen and a brood of chickens. Each officer was a ribbon, so that he could easily recognise it. The chickens were to be placed about fifty yards away from their mother, and whichever of them reached her first in answer to her cackle when food was thrown to her was to be ad-

And so this ridiculous "hen Derby" came off in the barracks at Windsor and was witnessed by nearly the whole brigade of guards, who traveled down from London especially to see it.

The race was such a success that it was arranged to repeat it the following week. It might possibly have become a regular institution and a racing stable of chickens might have been added to the attractions at Windsor had not Sir John's chicken won on each occasion with such ease as to cause suspicion in the minds of his competitors. Indeed, it was found, it is said, that in both races Sir John had selected a sturdy young cockerel who was much too speedy for his sisters. When victory was a certainty for one particular competitor the contest, of course, lost interest, and so the chicken races at Windsor came to a sudden

A WITTY PASHA.

He Told the Missionary a Story to Fit the Occasion.

Official bribery is common in the east, and it is a tender subject there. as a humorous story told by the late Rev. H. H. Jessup, D. D., in his book, "Fifty-three Years In Syria," bears

One day in 1873 Dr. Van Dyck, manager of the press in connection with the work of propaganda of the Syrian Protestant college at Beirut, was sent for by Kamil Pasha, the governor, to come to the serai, as he was about to shut up the press for a violation of the press laws. Dr. Van Dyck proceeded to the seral and asked the pasha what

"Wherein," asked Dr. Van Dyck, does it attack the government?"

The pasha pointed out several passages which criticised the bribery and orruption everywhere prevalent, perjury and lying among witnesses and public officials and the fact that "truth had fallen in the streets and equity could not enter."

"Have you never heard the story of the Cadi el Ah War?" asked the pasha. "And what is that?" queried the doc-

"Well," began the pasha, "once there was a famous one eyed cadi (judge). One day a man came to court and addressed him as follows:

"'Stop!' interrupted the cadi. 'Supposing I am one eyed, do I want to be everlastingly reminded of it? Get out of my sight!'

"And so," concluded the pasha, "we know that these reflections on our country and our courts are true, but we don't want to be publicly reminded

ANCESTRY.

Some Famous Personages to Whom It Meant Nothing.

The making famous of the expression "I am my own ancestor" is usually credited to Andoche Junot, for a time a marshal of France. Junot bad risen from the ranks and became the Duke of Abrantes and an important figure at Napoleon's newly formed court. One day a nobleman of the old regime asked him what was his ancestry. "Ah, sir," replied the spirited soldier, "I know nothing about it. I am my own ancestor." Probably he had never heard of the similar remark made by Tiberius about Curtius Rufus, "He seems to me to be descended from himself."

Napoleon's reply to the emperor of Austria was in a kindred vein. The Austrian when Napoleon became his prospective son-in-law would fain have traced the Bonaparte lineage to some petty prince of Treviso. "I am my own Rudolph of Hapsburg." said Napoleon. Under similar circumstance Napoleon silenced a genealogist, "Friend, my patent of nobility dates from Montenotte," his first great vic-with me; yours ends with you." Almost the same words were used by Alexander Dumas when asked if he were not descended from an ape (covert sneer at his negro grandmother). "Very likely my ancestry begins where yours ends."

Voltaire in his "Merope" says: "The first to become king was a successful soldier. He who serves well his country has no need of ancestry."

Conquered the Orchestra. In his early days Herr Arthur Nikisch, the famous conductor, was appointed to conduct a performance of "Tannhaeuser" at the Leipzig opera. He was but a young chorus master at the time, and the orchestra absolutely refused to play under so youthful a conductor. They were only induced to do so when a director said that if they were of the same mind after the overture had been played they could then and there hand in their resignations. The overture was a veritable triumph for Nikisch, and with profuse apologies the orchestra offered him their congratulations.-London Tit-Bits.

TURNER'S AMBITION.

The Great Painter Achieved It by Years of Self Sacrifice. Turper could not bear to sell a favorite painting. He was always melancholy after such a transaction. "I lost one of my children this week," he would sadly exclaim. At a meeting at Somerset House it was decided to purchase his two great pictures, the "Rise" and the "Fall of Carthage," for the National gallery. A Mr. Griffiths was commissioned to offer £5,000 for them. "A noble offer," said the painter, "a noble offer; but, no. I cannot part with them. Impossible." Mr. Griffiths, greatly disappointed, took his leave. Turner ran after him. "Tell those gentlemen," he said, "that the nation will most likely have the pictures after all." Long before this Turner had matured a purpose which continued to be his dominant idea while life lasted. This was to bequeath to his country a Turner gallery of pictures and to amass £100,000 to build and endow an asylum for decayed artists. It was for this great object that he denied himself all pleasures that cost money, all luxuries. His resolve, once made, could not be shaken. On one occasion he was offered £100,000 for the art treasures locked up in the "den." "Give me the key of the house, Mr. Turner," said a Liverpool merchant, "and here is the money." "No, thank you," replied Turner. "I have refused a better offer." And that was true. By his will he bequeathed £140,000 to found an asylum for poor artists born in England and a magnificent art collection to his country. This latter bequest was, however, coupled with the condition that his "Rise and Fall of Carthage" should be bung in the National gallery between Claude's "Seaport" and "Mill."-London Graphic.

Didn't Give Him the Chance. Schopenhauer, when staying in Geneva, used to go every day to a table d'hote at which now and then appeared other distinguished visitors. Once Lady Byron sat next to him.

"Doctor," said the host after she had left, with a twinkle in his eye, "doctor, do you know who sat next to you at the table today? It was Lady By-

A Clean Man

Outside cleaniness is less than nail the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

The bronze bullion lies in another room by itself, but as a few dollars' worth of this substance makes an uncomfortably heavy load it is not thought necessary to surround it with the minute safeguards used in the case of the precious metals,

The vaults themselves have a double combination. That to the outer door in known by the cashier only and that to the inner door by the custodian of the wants only. To enter a vault both men have to be together, and it is a rate of the department that both shall stay together till the inspection or other object for which the huge safe is opened is accomplished.

Entering one of these great cages after five minutes' working at the combination, one finds himself in a buge room partitioned off in fifteen compartments by steel gratings of the chamber goes down the length of the room from the door. At the entrance are stored the bronze coins, the cents, about $80,000 worth of them, but the amount varies from day to day. Next come the more precious nickel coins, of which the value usually totals about $300,000.

Beyond these storage places a steel grated door in the passage itself has to be opened and then still another to get completely to the end of the room. All along the length of this passageway, from the entrance to the want to the end, are the compartments for the coins, separated from the passageway by exactly the same kind of gratings as those which divide the way itself into sections.

The bottom, the sides and the top of this vault are lined with steel plates, and about the entire vault is the three Sect protection of concrete. Within the want itself are the separate compartments, each locked. These compartments are examined shortly after the end of the fiscal year and are then sealed by the examiners, so that any entrance to them would be impossible without the breakage of the seals. In each compartment devoted to the storage of gold the coin is stored first in bags which contain $5,000 each in half eagles, eagles or double eagles, and then these bags are arranged twenty on a shelf. Each shelf has thus $100,-000 on it. The shelves are arranged in rows downward, ten from top to bot- apple, tan 1?"-Delineator. tom of the compartment, each row having thus $1,000,000 in gold in it.

Electricity lights the entire section of each vault, and the electric current is so arranged that if it were possible for the vaults to be tampered with the electricity would immediately give notice outside that something was wrong.

A detachment of guards every night is stationed at the entrance to the stairways leading to the corridor, which gives access to the vaults themselves. Their orders are to shoot down any one attempting an entry.

For the protection of the mint from are a well drilled fire brigade has charge of the extinguishing apparatus. There are thirty-one fire alarm stations located in the corridors and rooms throughout the building.

At night every fifteen minutes thirtyone watchmen ring a signal notifying the watch in the telephone room that all is well. All these men carry revolvers during the night watch. If the mal from any watchman was not beard at the right time an instant alarm would be sounded .- Philadelphia

BIRTH OF AN ICEBERG.

The Dramatic Experience of Two Antarctic Explorers.

C. E. Borchgrevink, commander of The Millions Piled Up In the Mint | the antarctic expedition of 1898, nearly lost his life by an accident of a nature so peculiar that it is probable no other man could duplicate the experience. At the foot of Mount Terror in February, 1900, he landed from his ship with Captain Jensen and three other men. Then, wishing to take a picture of the shore, he sent his boat back to the vessel to get a camera, and he and Captain Jeusen were left alone on the rough beach. Before the boat returned a strange and awful thing happened. Mr. Borchgrevink told the story in the Outlook:

Utilizing the Waste Product.

A parish in the highlands had been cut off from communication with the nearest town owing to a severe storm. Supplies began to give out, and the minister was much perturbed in mind, as his snuffbox was quite empty. The Sabbath came round. How was he to get through his discourse without the aid of his usual stimulant? He appealed to his faithful henchman, the sexton. Alas, he was in a similar unsatisfactory predicament! How was It to be remedied? Andrew shook his head, thought long and suddenly disappeared. Presently he returned with something resembling snuff wrapped strongest kind. #### Spoke Too Soon.

Alexandre Dumas was one day the guest of Dr. Gistal, a leading practitioner in Marseilles. After dinner, while the coffee was being handed round, the host requested the great novelist to enrich his album with one of his witty improvisations.

"Certainly," replied Dumas, with a smile, and, drawing out a pencil, he wrote under the eyes of his entertainer the following lines:

A PATHETIC DUEL

Sad Sequel to a Meeting In the Days

One of the most pathetic duels in the early history of the American navy was that between two young midshipmen whose names are not given in the record, according to a recent writer. Their ship was in the Malayan waters. One hot night they quarreled over the question of leaving open the scuttle. The dispute was finally settled amicably by the exchange of cots, A superior officer who had overheard their heated words made it plain to one of the midshipmen that he would have to "call out" his friend if he wished to retain the respect of his friends. To avoid ostracism and to conform to the standard of honor imposed by his superiors the unwilling midshipman challenged.

The meeting occurred on the seashore. He wrote of it afterward as follows: "Upon the signal we both fired. I found myself wounded and was about to lean upon my second's arm when I perceived my opponent fall upon the sand. My own wound was in the fleshy part of the thigh. It did not prevent my running to the prostrate figure of my old friend. kneeling down by his side, I implored his forgiveness, which he instantly

Seed Wheat---Harvest King Recleaned and True to Name.

Harvest King is smooth head wheat red in color and is one of the most popular varieties grown in Kentucky Heads medium long and well filled, with short plump grain. A fine milling wheat, often scoring ninety-seven or more. It is a sure cropper and produces a large yield, the yield having reached as high as fifty bushels per acre on the Kentucky Experimental Farm at Lexington in year 1900. The quality is the best I have ever grown. While the supply lasts I am offering my crop at $1.10 per bushel. Send in your order early, as orders are coming in fast and the time for sowing is drawing near.

Thanking you in advance for your patronage, I am yours truly. E. G. AUSTIN.
